Ward Carver, and Grand Juror William Wishart in city court this morning. Surety of $500 for Mrs. Montopoli's appearance and $50 on the liquor seized has been furnished. The case of State vs. Intoxicating liquor, a cause growing out of a raid on the premises of Mr. and Mrs. Adolfo Malmati of Cambria street, will be heard on the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 6. Bail of $50 on the liquor seized has been furnished.

Enterprise alley was selected as a setting yesterday for the adjustment of a little question of rivalry that had developed between the clerical attaches at the Montpelier & Wells River freight office and a number of clerks employed in stores along the west side of the business section. William McCarey of the Brown pharmacy was chosen to represent the street clerks and the freighthouse gang sent over Pat Hale with a detail of money carriers in his wake. Nearly 100 people saw the two aspirants travel the 100-yard course that nearly marked them both as 10-second men. Young John McHardy, who has a record as a schoolboy athlete, was the pacemaker and the outcome of the race was not determined until the last lap had been reached. McCarey won the final spurt and shared generously in the division of the spoils.

At his home, 58 Franklin street, last evening S. D. Allen was agreeably surprised by a number of friends who gathered to remind him of his 70th birthday anniversary. There were two tables of whist and 500 and a merry time was enjoyed in calling up reminiscences of other days. A substantial luncheon had for its "piece de resistance" a large birthday cake, brilliantly illumined with candles. Mr. Allen is the moving spirit in the Allen Lumber Co. and has been identified with business interests in Barre for many years.

MONTPELIER

No Democratic Representative Candidate Filed Nomination.

Two candidates for the office of city representative, William A. Lord and Joseph G. Brown, filed the necessary petitions with city clerk late yesterday afternoon, the former having about 250 signatures and the latter 90. The necessary number required by law is 43 or three per cent of the total vote cast at the last election of city representatives. The Democratic party failed to have any candidate file papers and it is probable that someone will be selected later, the voter to write in the name of his selection.

Antonio Vitagliano of Concord, N. H., arrived in the city today for a brief visit with relatives.

Ida M. Wakefield, who has been spending a month in the city with relatives, left this forenoon for her home, White Plains, N. Y.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Fred E. Hollins of Boston is passing a few days with friends in the city.

William Gurnaw is moving his family from Granite street to Beckley hill.

The girls' cooking class will meet on Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the Congregational church.

J. David Holmes of Burlington arrived in the city this morning and will spend several days in the city on business.

Mrs. Michael Doran of Boston is passing several days in the city, having been summoned here by the illness of a relative.

W. H. Goodfellow returned to his home on Spaulding street last night, after visiting friends in South Ryegate during the past week.

Thomas McLean of Graniteville, returned to his home last night after visiting friends in Burlington and vicinity for the past few days.

Miss Elizabeth Spicer has gone to her home in West Lebanon, N. H., after visiting friends and relatives in Barre and Washington during the past three weeks.

Mrs. Mary Pease of Hartford arrived in the city last night and will visit at the home of Mrs. Harriet P. Morse of Maple avenue for a few days.

Q. H. Perry of Wellington street left this morning for Albany, N. Y., where he will spend a few days on a business trip in the interests of the Perry Automobile Co.

John McLean of Montpelier resumed his duties in the Union Dry Goods store this morning, after a vacation of two weeks. Alex Kesson of Laurel street, who begins a vacation this evening, will leave at midnight for New Haven, Conn., to visit acquaintances.

An elderly woman alighting from a northbound street car at the Prospect street crossing last evening felt herself sinking to the pavement. Before her companion could reach her side to lend a helping hand, she had fallen into the street. Carmen and others assisted her into an automobile and she was taken to the office of a South Main street physician for treatment. It developed that she suffered an injury to one of her lower left limbs in an auto accident some time since and that the member had remained in a weakened condition. As soon as the limb was sufficiently rested, she was able to continue her journey.

Four young men, entering the Cummings & Lewis pharmacy last evening, broke up a spell of ennui and incidentally brought satiety to their love of novelty and adventure by indulging in an egg-eating contest. Plenty of eggs were supplied by the firm's josh slinger at the street crossing. The contest was held on the sidewalk in front of the pharmacy. The man who should first feel a surfeit of the fruit in his own particular egg basket. Eighty-nine raw eggs were devoured before the contest ended and the count was registered as follows: P. Landi, a violin professor, 24; Arthur Carroll, 23; Paul Simons, who came in to supper late, 21; Frank Ahern, 21. Failure to settle on the identity of the defeated member of the egg-eating quartet resulted in a settlement on the pro rata basis. The man who handles the soda business at the Cummings & Lewis pharmacy said he never saw so many eggs disappear in a single night.

TALK OF THE TOWN

New suits and coats at Abbott's. October Pictorial Review patterns at Fitts'.

New goods for school wear at the Vaughan Store.

Dr. E. H. Bancroft returned yesterday from Detroit, Mich., where he has been attending a session of the American Veterinary Medical association.

Amasa Williams of Lunenburg was a business visitor in the city this morning, leaving this noon for Wells River, where he will visit relatives for a few days while en route to his home.

Anyone planning on doing any canning or on making jelly for the hospital bag day, which will be in October, can have all the jars or tumblers they want by going to the hospital for them.

Clifton Peake, who was arrested on an intoxication charge Monday evening, had his second arraignment in city court this morning and was sentenced to the state hospital at Waterbury for six months.

The respondent spent the day yesterday in trying to refresh his memory, as a disclosure made to the magistrate on the morning after his arrest proved unsatisfactory.

When the time expired last night for filing nomination papers for the office of city representative, three petitions, duly signed with the percentage of names necessary to have the candidate's name printed on the primary ballot, had been filed in the office of the city clerk. Yesterday the names of Frank G. Howland and Henry A. Phelps, Republican candidates, were filed and on the preceding day a petition circulated for Rev. J. B. Reardon, a Democratic candidate, was filed with the clerk.

Batchelder's meadow granite manufacturers have got together on a project to supply their own tool sharpening needs by erection of a blacksmith shop, which will house one of the firm's sharpening machines. McDonnell & Sons are the moving spirits in the venture and a permit has been secured from the building inspector for the erection of a structure with lateral dimensions of 18 and 13 feet. It is expected that work on the building will be started within a few days. Several manufacturing plants will patronize the sharpening outfit, after the manner of other manufacturers on the Barre granite belt.

Patrons of the Washington street line of the Barre & Montpelier Traction & Power Co. are asking that a waiting station be erected somewhere near the Nelson street terminus and to the end that this want may be supplied, the advertising committee has been authorized to confer with the railroad officials. It is understood that the traction people have an extra waiting station which will place at the disposal of the city whenever a suitable location for the structure is obtained. The portable station conforms to a type already in use on the intercity line and will be available at once, the officials say. There is a feeling that the location should not be at the farthestmost end of the line and several sites are being considered.

Supt. Alex Hanton of the city cemeteries returned to the city last evening from Norfolk, Va., where he attended the annual convention of the National Association of Cemetery Superintendents. As was told in The Times last week, Mr. Hanton, acting for the Barre Board of Trade, succeeded in having the convention vote unanimously to come to Barre for their 1917 convention. The convention was the occasion of one of the largest gatherings of cemetery superintendents ever held in America and they voted with one accord to come to Barre. It is expected that the 1917 convention will be held during the third week in August or thereabouts and Supt. Hanton estimates that more than 250 members, with their wives and other guests, will be in attendance.

One of the Smith & Cummings grocery teams, driven by H. E. LaBelle met with a bad accident Monday night while delivering groceries on the west side of the river on Garfield avenue. Mr. LaBelle was in one of the tenements with goods, when the horse became uneasy with the smell of fresh sweet corn just across the fence, and commenced by helping itself to a good hearty meal of his favorite repast. On coming in contact with the wire fence which separates the highway from the tillage at this point, the horse became frightened at the snags of the wire, backing the wagon directly across the road and over a steep embankment that is situated along the street. As the horse backed the wagon over the pitch of the hill, the contents of the load pulled the horse along, and horse, wagon and groceries took a roll down the slope of the hill, demolishing the groceries and wagon, and hurting the horse's leg. It was found that a severe sprain was the extent of the horse's injury.
